POISON MYSTERY AS GIRL FALLS DEAD

Police were faced today with a possible poison murder in the strange death of an attractive 25-year-old girl who collapsed on the steps of a Huntington ave. apartment house. She was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital. Among her effects were cards indicating she may have lived at a Boston hotel under the name of Ruth West. Police also found membership cards of two chartered clubs, one in Columbus ave., and another on Broadway.

ITALY'S AIR FLEET REACHES MONTREAL

Montreal, Que., July 14 (INS)—The transatlantic fleet of Italian seaplanes en route to Chicago arrived here today at 1:45 p. m. on their last stopping place before attaining their 6100-mile goal. The 24 planes, under Gen. Italo Balbo, flew here from Sheadia, N. B., approximately 500 miles. (Details in Page 3).

50 PER CENT CUT FOR LEAF TOBACCO

Little Boar's Head, N. H., July 14—Lashing out with all his old time vigor—and a little bit more—former Governor Alvan T. Fuller said, among other things, in an exclusive interview today with the Boston Evening American, that his first move, if he is re-elected will be to fire Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman.

"And," he added, with a tight-lipped smile, "there will be no joy in Innisville when the mighty Casey Hultman strikes out."

DO NOT TAKE TO GRAB

"Hultman is a disciple of Charles Innes," he explained, "and Innes is the boss of the Republican gang who want a police commissioner who can be handled."

"You know," he said musingly, as he gazed out to sea, "these police investigations are funny. They never fire anybody—they just transfer them. As a matter of fact, I have always figured they had so much on each other they didn't dare fire anybody."

The former governor swatted a fly and settled back in his chair on the porch of his summer home "Runnymede-by-the-Sea."

"Take Garret for example," he said. "They had to fire him because he talked so much. But they didn't know what was going on they must have been damn

Yale professor strangely missing since yesterday afternoon.

New York, July 14 (INS)—Following the orders of the kidnapers of young John J. O'Connell, Jr., relatives of the youth today inserted in code the names of nine possible intermediaries as advertisements in three New York papers. There were three separate lists of three intermediaries each submitted. All the advertisements were addressed: "Dear Rex, Each list was signed differently.

The request of the kidnapers that a third and new list of negotiators be inserted in New York newspapers caused some police officials to believe young O'Connell was held in or near New York City.

Others suggested the use of the New York newspapers might

Investigation of Boston police and crime conditions came to a climax today in drastic action by Governor Ely. He sent a special message to the Legislature asking for authority to appoint a special commission of three persons to investigate the police, slot machines, clubs, and place responsibility and devise remedies.

He also sent to the Legislature the list of 20 public enemies sent to him by Supt. Crowley at the governor's request.

These actions by the governor was in accordance with a recommendation made in a front page editorial in yesterday's Boston Evening American, following exposures and shakeups in the police department.

The investigation demanded by Gov. Ely will encompass the courts and the district attorney's office as well as the police system, and may also result in re-organization of the criminal laws and revamping of the probation system.

WHY CRIME IS RAMPANT

Accompanying his message, the governor, in a secret communication, sent to the Legislature the names of the 20 most notorious characters in Boston, a list handed him by Police Commissioner Hultman at the governor's demand.

Publicly the governor referred to these individuals by numbers and revealed a startling situation. One of the number was arrested

OWN CHILD TO BE SURPRISE WITNESS FOR MRS. COSTELLO

WIDOW LOOKS FOR BACK FREEDOM

Peabody Woman Has Promised Revelation From Trial Stand

By WIN BROOKS
Salem, July 14—More than two centuries have passed since the dancing eerie reflection of the flames on Gallows Hill touched the shrouded, spectral figures hanging there.

More than two centuries have passed, and men no longer die from witchcraft and women no longer hang from the trees on Gallows Hill. For the trees are all dead, and witchcraft is no more.

WIDOW CONFIDENT
But sometimes, now, men die from poison, and sometimes, not quite so consciously but just as completely, women pay for it with their lives.

And Monday, in the old stone courthouse below the hill where our superstitious forefathers gave the town something to try to live down, the Commonwealth will try to settle to rest, for the first time, a woman to the electric chair.

"But it won't be me," Jessie Costello said today. "God, why would I kill poor Luis? He was always good to me and I always loved him. One more day, and then another, and then the trial. Then home with my children."

Not confidently, as they read, but matter-of-factly expressing a conviction.

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN
Jessie Costello is a beautiful woman.

"More beautiful," said Francis E. Rafter, chief of her defense counsel, "than any girl I have ever known." He would indicate. The only picture that ever came anywhere near doing her justice was that which the Boston Evening American

Wrestler's 4-in-1 Dishwasher :- Lipe's Rival for Film Star

HERE ARE GUS AND HIS 4-IN-1 WIFE GOING STRONG
From left to right in the co-operative dish-washing scene, you see Judith Allen, newly risen screen star; Mari Colman, Hollywood's mystery girl from Boston with the perfect back; Marie Elliot, Belmont blonde; Mrs. Gus Sonnenberg and Gus himself, former heavy-weight wrestling champ. They are all there because Gus gave the secret away today and confessed that Judith Allen is Mari Colman.

What does it do to Lipe's heart? "Oh! Oh! What's this I hear? they've been telling the world about their love for years, and every three or four months admitting they might get married.

Montreal-N. Y. Trip Takes a Year

New York, July 14 (AP)—Harold Thor Jensen, who set out from Montreal in a canoe paddling his way to Vancouver around Cape Horn, had reached New York today.

Jensen left Boston on June 4, coming down the coast by way of Cape Cod Canal. He will leave tomorrow for Perth Amboy, N. J., and then will follow inland water to Washington.

In open waters, Jensen takes a sail. A canvas cover protects the engine from shipping water. He left Montreal last August.

Judge Walsh dismissed Mrs. Sonnenberg's cross-complaint on the ground that Sonnenberg, who filed suit, was in Nevada for only six weeks and had given no intention of establishing home here.

Judge Walsh said that the "Hunnswells" case, which was referred to the divorce suit, was announced today by the public works administration.

Boston Pilots Parle Regress Bring Photos on July 27

The International News Photo cameramen and two Boston pilots shared honors today in bringing the people of Boston and New England the first pictures of the landing on this side of the Atlantic of Gen. Italo Balbo and his armada of seaplanes.

The cameramen, who flew 1500 miles from New York to Cartwright, Labrador, through fog and inclement weather, and secured their pictures, are Hugh Broderick and M. A. Baron.

Sharing honors with the daring cameramen are Harold Crowley and William Tannor, both Boston pilots, and well known in this section for spectacular flying feats. They secured the pictures from the cameramen and relayed them back down the coast to Boston.

Mrs. G. H. Dresser Dies in Hull Home

Mrs. Evelyn M. Dresser, wife of George H. Dresser, formerly vice president of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, died at her summer home at Hull today after a brief illness.

Mrs. Dresser was born in Portland, Me., but was married to Mr. Dresser in Somerville and lived there for many years prior to moving to Brookline. She was active in many social and charitable enterprises, president of the Portland Telephone Club, and a member of the first picture of the landing on this side of the Atlantic of Gen. Italo Balbo and his armada of seaplanes.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at Mount Auburn chapel.

GOVERNMENT HOT ROW OVER NIGHTS

Seek Protection From Accidents in the Back Bay Area

State Rep. Martin Hays and Myer Moscow, president of the Audubon Beacon Improvement Association, engaged in a heated argument with Traffic Commissioner Joseph A. Conry today when they demanded that traffic lights be placed at Audubon circle on Beacon st. to prevent further loss of life and injury by speeding automobiles.

Conry refused to admit Moscow to his office and told Hays to take the matter up with Police Commissioner Huitman.

"Go Huitman yourself," Hays said angrily, "I'm not your messenger boy."

HEATED ARGUMENT
Moscow, hearing the row, pushed his way into Conry's office and the commissioner told him the same thing.

"Go to Huitman and tell him you want two mounted officers on duty at Audubon Circle," Conry said.

"That's a job for him not for me."

"This is a case for the traffic commissioner," Moscow replied.

"If you look same interest in the job I'll have him saved."

"If I knew as little about the job as traffic commissioner as you do, I'd resign."

"And I'll recommend you for the office," Conry answered with a smile as Hays and Moscow strode out of the office.

USED AS SPEEDWAY

Claiming that Beacon st. between Kenmore sq. and Audubon Circle is used as a speedway by motorists, the Audubon-Beacon Improvement Association has started a campaign to have traffic lights installed.

According to Moscow, five persons have been killed and 26 injured in the last year. A large sign, posted near the circle, calls public attention to the fact that the people of the district pay $200,000 in taxes and get no protection from gangsters who pay no taxes.

Following the conference, Conry issued a long statement in which he declared Moscow's (quarrel was) with Huitman not with him, and again insisted that Moscow should ask Huitman for two mounted officers.

ON CHILD TO BE STAR COSTELLO WITNESS

took the day she was taken from the jail to the dentist's office. It is the one she like best."
Behind the smile as baffling as that of the Mona Lisa, Jessie Costello has a mind as hair-trigger quick as a steel trap.
"She'll be a witness in her own defense beyond anything ever seen in a capital case in this or any other state. A confidence that someone has me scared. As if she didn't realize this was a murder trial and that she wanted her life. And then I know she knows and that such confidence can be only the reflection of her conscience."
"Murder is a word we do not use in her presence. It was mentioned once during a conference with her in the jail. She said, quietly enough, 'don't ever use that word in my presence again.' And we never have."

RECALLS FAITHFUL CASE
The defense?
Take a dark-haired child of nine who knows exactly when last she saw her father alive.
Take the drug that was in the brain of the exotic Star Faithfull when she died.
Take the alcohol that was in the brain of Albert Snyder when his father's Ruth and her corset salesman, lowered the window weight on him.
Take the potassium cyanide that the state claims killed Fire Capt. William J. Costello.

DAUGHTER TO TESTIFY
Take those things and add two glasses of hot coffee and a fat doughnut daily and there you have it, as strange and potent a concoction as ever was brewed and stirred in the legendary kettles of this old town in 1892.
The child is Ann Marie, eldest of the three children of the "smiling widow". Her testimony is likely to be all important if the hour when she recalls last seeing her father alive conflicts with the yet undisclosed theoretical "hour of death" the state will put into evidence.

The drug in the brain of Star Faithfull and the alcohol in the brain of Albert Snyder are but slightly less important, for upon his study of them, and a comparative study of the organs of the dead Paschley fire captain, Dr. Alexander O. Goettler, famous New York toxicologist, has based considerable of the evidence that will go in for the defense.

Dr. Goettler has always maintained Star Faithfull was a victim of murder because the amount of drug found in her brain tissue after death proved conclusively to him, that she was asleep when she died. That case and the Snyder case were among several minutely gone into by Rafter and other defense attorneys at a recent conference with the defense medical expert, Rafter revealed.

DIET FOR TRIAL
Nor are the two glasses of hot coffee and the fat doughnut without their importance in the defense picture for they are really Rafter himself. They are all he eats daily during the 12 hours he is putting into preparation of the defense.

"And they are all I will eat during the trial, which looks now as if it would last five weeks. I work better on that food than upon anything else."

Rafter is a stocky man with eyeglasses, a vocabulary little short of Webster's and a voice the jury will have no difficulty in hearing. He was Ely's whip in the House.
"There's only one way to try this case," he said, "that's to come out something when the bell rings. And that is how we're coming Monday morning."

"Anything less than an acquittal will be a loss of the case."

Babies Born to Noted Women Net Stars

A son and a daughter have been born to two famous mothers in the past few days. It was revealed today, and all are reported as doing nicely.
The girl was born to Mrs. Margaret Merrill Painter, tennis player, the wife of Whitfield Painter, of County St., Dedham. The girl, born yesterday afternoon, has been named Nancy Olive Painter.
The son was born Tuesday to Mrs. William Snodden, the former Ruth Blodgett, another widely known tennis player.

LIQUOR BILL UP ON MONDAY

A public hearing will be held at 11 a. m. Monday by the legislative committee on legal affairs to determine whether the Legislature should enact a hard liquor regulation law at the present session or leave it to be the subject of study and report by a special commission.
The action is expected to open the entire subject of hard liquor control and regulation and will probably arouse numerous controversies between proponents of both repeal and prohibition.
The House yesterday reconsidered its proposal for a study of such regulation by a special commission and recommended this to the legal affairs committee. This action came after Governor Ely's special message, asking for action at this session and pointing out that there would be answer for any delay in the event prohibition was repealed before the next session, had been received.

PEARSON URGES USE OF CHAIR

New York, July 14 (AP)—It will be a very fortunate and comfortable day for the people of this country when some kidnaper sits down in the electric chair, in the opinion of Edmund Pearson, America's foremost writer on real life crimes.
"The crime of kidnapping is one which cannot be explained by people who try to account for all crime on the ground that it is a matter of sudden passion or impulse," said Pearson.
"It is a piece of carefully thought out and calculated devilishness. The kidnaper plans to extort money by torturing people. The men who plan kidnapping ought never to be allowed outside of prison again."
Pearson believes swift and sure punishment, particularly of murderers, offers a solution of the crime problem, citing the example of England and Canada. Ten years of murder trial study also has convinced the historians of the League Nations under case and other sensational American crimes that 80 or 90 per cent of persons formally accused of murder are guilty.

Your own home made mayonnaise tastes FRESH because it is fresh

When you make your own mayonnaise you use an egg just out of the shell and choice Wesson Oil. Perhaps you use freshly squeezed lemon juice instead of vinegar. These fresh ingredients are whipped to a creamy smoothness and served while you know they are fresh . . . so your own home made mayonnaise always has that delicious "just made" taste . . . and there simply isn't anything to compare with it.

HERE'S THE NEW MIXER THAT WHIPS IT UP IN 1 1/2 MINUTES! PERFECT MAYONNAISE EVERY TIME!

It works with one hand while you pour with the other . . . whips up a perfect mayonnaise in 1 1/2 minutes . . . the time required for the pint of Wesson Oil to pour out of the can. When the can is empty, six more strokes and your mayonnaise is finished. It can't fail.

ELI'S PUBLIC ENEMIES; DEMANDS POLICE PROBE

Governor Eli's special message to the Legislature, demanding an investigation of the Boston police situation, follows:

Because the police department for the City of Boston is theoretically under the control of the state through the appointment of the commissioner by the governor, I have deemed it my responsibility to discover the reason for the lawless conditions prevailing in the city and the failure to cope with such conditions. The report of a special grand jury investigation initiated by the administration of the Boston police had served to accentuate the necessity for more rigorous law enforcement. I am reasonably familiar with the evidence produced before that body of investigators.

Lists Public Enemies Named for the Police

I have made it my business to inquire into the methods of our police system. At my request the department has furnished me with the criminal records of 20 individuals with the greatest number of offenses charged against them. I transmit them to you for your information. I refrain from giving names in this message, but designate the individuals by numbers which appears upon the criminal record submitted to me.

No. 1, between May, 1915, and March, 1922, found himself in the law 22 times. Ten of the alleged offenses were felonies. Three times jail sentences were suspended. Three times after having been released on parole from the Concord Reformatory, it was necessary to revoke parole. He was finally shot and killed April 21, 1925, by a police officer who was endeavoring to apprehend him while he was engaged in the commission of a felony.

No. 2 was in the tolls of the law approximately 50 times from 1917 to June, 1933. Five charges against him were for larceny, robbery or breaking and entering. He never spent time on any of them. In 1922 he was given a sentence of three years for larceny in the lower court and 30 fine for same. From both sentences appeal was taken. No disposition was made in the Superior Court. I am informed that the papers in the two cases were either lost or mislaid in the Municipal Court, and the case because of the lapse of time, was later when years had elapsed forwarded to the Superior Court, the court declined to handle the case because of the lapse of time. He was shot and killed June 7, 1933.

No. 4 Gets Out In Murderous Cases

No. 4 presents another record of 19 occasions since 1923 when this man has been in the tolls of the law. Two of the charges were result in kill and murder. Upon both of them he was discharged. No. 5 has been in the tolls of the law approximately 50 times since 1917. He has been charged with breaking and entering, or manslaughter, or assault and battery. He has served seven days in jail for contempt and nine months in the House of Correction for larceny.

No. 8 has been in the tolls of the law approximately 15 times since 1917 for various offenses, twice for the larceny of automobiles—the first in 1928 and the second, a year later, in 1929. In both instances the crime was reduced from larceny of an automobile to using without authority. On the first offense he was given probation for one year. On the second offense he served two years in the House of Correction, although he had previously been on probation for the same offense on two different occasions and had served two sentences for larceny as well. He is now wanted by the Boston police for assault to murder on August 11, 1932, by shooting the victim in the arm and chest.

No. 17 Finally Sent to Prison

No. 14 during the years from 1918 to 1932 was arrested for breaking and entering and larceny, or its equivalent, on 11 different occasions. The last offense for which he was convicted being April, 1931, and resulted in a sentence of six months in the House of Correction, although he had previously been on probation for the same offense on two different occasions and had served two sentences for larceny as well. He is now wanted by the Boston police for assault to murder on August 11, 1932, by shooting the victim in the arm and chest.

No. 17 has been in the tolls of the law approximately 40 times since 1920 and was finally sentenced in the Suffolk Superior Court on Jan. 15, 1932, to a term of ten years in State Prison for assault with intent to kill. He has been released from the House of Correction on the expiration of a sentence July 26, 1932; was re-arrested again Aug. 16, of the same year, to two months in the House

Beer Approved for Men on Dole

Unlike Waltham's Mayor P. J. Duane, Boston Overseers of the Public Welfare have no scruples against 3.2 beer for relief recipients.

The Boston dole administrators contemplate an rule against the legalized brew, Walter V. McCarthy, secretary of the board, said today. "Personally, I see nothing wrong about a glass of beer. It's as legal as tea or coffee," said McCarthy, on commenting on Duane's order to summarily remove from the Waltham welfare list anyone drinking beer. The Waltham order was the result of complaints to the mayor that dole recipients were spending money unnecessarily for beer.

MATTERN WILL FISH ALONE

Chicago, July 14 (AP)—Despite injuries and exposure that followed the crash of his plane in Siberia, Jimmie Matern is determined to complete alone a flight around the world.

In a cable to S. J. Sackett, one of his backers, Matern today outlined a plan of traveling as a passenger in a Soviet plane from Anadyr, Siberia, where he was stranded, to Nome, Alaska.

At Nome he would obtain a plane taken there by a relief expedition headed by William Alexander of New York, fly back to Anadyr, and at that point turn about and complete the globe trip.

If this were accomplished, he would be the first pilot to complete a solo trip around the world, although using two planes to do it and falling far behind the time record of less than nine days set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

scrupulous as the basis of pools of idlers.

All these matters require an efficient police, a systematic and courageous prosecution, the co-operation of the police, the district attorney and other enforcing bodies and public co-operation as well.

I present these to you and ask for authority to appoint a commission of three persons, properly empowered, and with a sufficient appropriation to permit them to conduct a proper investigation to place the responsibility for the violations of the law which I have cited in this message and to find means to improve our law and respect for it. Meanwhile I shall use the respect at my command to correct these most flagrant and apparent abuses.

Hultman Reveals What He Knows

After declaring twice that he was "too busy" to see reporters about Governor Eli's list of 20 notorious offenders, Commissioner Hultman finally was reached on the telephone at his office today by a Boston Evening American reporter.

This conversation ensued: Q.—Mr. Commissioner, the Governor has given out the names of 20 so-called public enemies, three of whom are deceased. What do you intend to do in the future about handling these 50 men?

A.—You can tell the Boston American I refuse to comment.

Q.—Well, the Boston American also wants to know if you have photographs of the 20 and if you have will you release them for publication?

A.—I don't know what information the Governor gave out. All I know is what you told me. Until I know what the Governor gave out I'm not going to comment.

Q.—You've already declared them public enemies and caused their names to be broadcast. Why can't you furnish their pictures—if you have them?

A.—In the first place I did not call them public enemies. I simply gave the Governor a list of 20 criminals. I'm not the author of the term "public enemies."

Q.—What about the pictures, Mr. Commissioner—can we have them?

A. What pictures, the ones in our Ragues Gallery?

Q. Yes, the ones in Ragues Gallery. Can we have them?

A. I don't think I have the legal right to give them out.

Q. Will you determine whether you have the legal right?

A. No, I won't comment on this at all until I see what the Governor gave out.

Q. Well, you know what you gave to the Governor don't you?

A. Yes, I know. But I still say I won't comment.

Q. Well, I guess that ends it, Mr. Commissioner.

A. Yes, Good-by.

Firefighters Yank Bull From Swamp

Yanking bulls out of swamps is a new pastime for Weston firemen.

The 70-pound bull was sinking fast when the firefighters arrived and extricated it. The animal expressed its gratitude in a snort and hurried home.

With ropes and tackle they rescued a pure-blooded Gurney which escaped from the barns on the estate of Charles H. Jones on Glen rd., Weston and mired itself in a swamp off Wellesley st.

SONNYS PART OVER FILM STAR

day and never even got a thank-you note."

"WHAT, YOUR WIFE?"

Gus was very angry and a little resentful as he delivered himself of a flying butt that would have been from the royal crown of the wrestling circuit to the little movie house on the flag-top tower.

"Judith Allen," he grunted again. "That's my wife. That's Marie Ellen, daughter of the John D. Elliott of Belmont. Mrs. Sonnenberg—but I guess it's all over."

He probably wouldn't have felt so badly except that he had a little pain from his recent Pacific Coast bout with Jim Rowing, a little pain that wasn't all in the neck from Gary Cooper.

The following newspaperman rushed to Hollywood to find out what Judith Allen, alias Mrs. Sonnenberg, new film star, had to say.

NO LOVE FOR ROSES

"I'm sorry Gus talked, but I've read this masquerade is over," she said.

"I don't want to hurt Gus. I do not love him and Gus has not loved me and I can do it, I suppose, to maintain a divorce."

"I thought it was only fair to tell Gary about Gus. I want it understood that my gossip-column linking our names is merely that—gossip."

Then she revealed how she and Gus had twice tried and twice failed to make a go of what every body around Boston believed was a glamorous romance.

HONEYMOONS FAIR

"When I met Gus he was charming and a glutton for my love. I was in (11) now, and thought I fell in love with him."

"Well it didn't work. After a month with him I went back to continue my dramatic studies in Boston. We went back together again, later, and I stayed in his house. He laughed at me."

"We took a trip to Honolulu as a honeymoon. From that time on I knew there was no use trying to make a go of it, so I returned to dramatic school and was graduated a year ago."

After dramatic school she said she played in a stock company in the Berkshires, tried the New York stage, tried modeling, and then took a movie film test.

"I felt I was getting somewhere," she commented, "but the thought of someone finding out my secret haunted me."

It was back in the winter of 1930-31 that Gus the Dynamite, risen to fame and wealth, the grace of a steel axial column and his flying tackle, laid siege to the heart of Marie Ellen of Belmont.

who lived then with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Elliott at 21 Payson st.

Their engagement was announced on January 26, 1931, and Gus, just as he had no qualms over where his bride should be, presented his bride-to-be a $5000 automobile by way of a betrothal memento.

Marie was graduated from Waverly High School in 1929 and for two years attended Leland Power School. Her father, then mayor for a Boston department store, then he was transferred to Providence.

WITH HIM IN TRIALS

They were married in the Little Church Around the Corner in New York, March 12, 1931.

The redoubtable Mrs. Sonnenberg recalled the ceremony today, but not fearfully.

"And Pearson, a New York banker, was best man, and one of my former school chums, Lillian Gish, was bridesmaid," she said.

"They lived in Boston and also in Hollywood. When Gus was arrested for moonlighting more than a year ago, as the result of an automobile accident in which a Lawrence policeman was killed, his wife stuck to him, and she was his daily companion at his trial, both in lower and superior court. Everybody said, 'This girl, they must be truly in love and she certainly very brave' to stick to him."

Gus was found not guilty she vanished.

matter, he felt sure that all this was just a little spat—a tempest in a teapot."

"Gus and Marie lived with me in Boston at 21 Payson st. in Belmont," he said. "And I know they were happy then."

LAPE VELEZ SILENT

About three months ago, I left Boston for Providence, Marie went out to the Coast at the same time. It was impossible for Sonnenberg to go with her then because of his engagements in the East. He followed her sometime later. And I really can't say just what—if anything—happened out there. You see, I'm pretty far from the scene."

He did, however, know of his daughter's accomplishments in the movies, and he was proud of them. "She made a hit in 'Lead Me Miles' 'This Day and Age'," he said, "and she has already started work on a new picture in which she plays the lead opposite Bud Crosby. That's pretty good for three months in Hollywood."

The one person who didn't have any comment was Lape Velez, the glamorous girl from Mexico, who and Gary Cooper have been telling for years, admitting every other month that they are in love. Perhaps the shock was too much for her.

Widow Needs $1500 to Halt Eviction

Swanwick, N. H., July 14.—(11) Mrs. Florence Brooks-Allyn, formerly a milliner and a generous giver of charity, will be interested in her home here.

After that it will be auctioned to the highest bidder and she must leave, although she has no funds, no place to go and no money in a physical impossibility.

Threatened with eviction last month, Mrs. Brooks-Allyn was forced to foreclose of the mortgage. The owner of the house, Aug. 5 or the day for the auction unless $1500 is paid before that time.

She gave hundreds of thousands of dollars to Yale, Princeton, various churches and hospitals. Overnight her fortune melted away.

Labor's Aid Asked in Fighting Gangs

BUSINESS MUST HELP WAGE INCREASE

Washington, July 14 (AP)—Hugh R. Johnson, administrator of the government's industrial recovery enterprise, told newspapermen today that he expected it to be necessary to ask voluntary imposition of hour limits and increase of wages by all business, pending approval of individual codes.

This view was taken by him, although recognizing that agreements for minimum wages and maximum hours have been coming in at a much improved rate of late, and indicating it might not be necessary to impose a fixed date by which all such codes should be in.

It was revealed that practically the entire rayon and silk industries came in and voluntarily sought to get under the terms of the cotton textile code, 40 hours a week and wages of $12 in the South and $13 in the North, when the latter goes into effect next Monday.

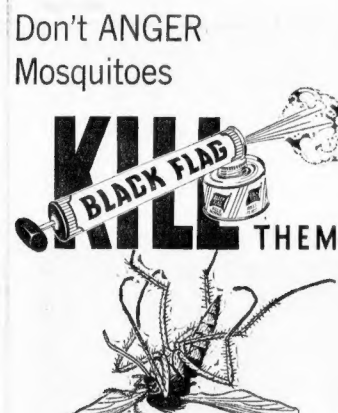

This brought practically all of the spinning and weaving industry together except wool, which Johnson understood was very wary ready with a code. He said it was suggested to have a general agreement between the industries and President Roosevelt, as provided by the recovery law.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt seriously pondered a proposal by some advisers that he set to its minimum rates of pay and maximum hours of work in all industries.

He was said to be pleased at what administrators of the recovery act interpreted as industry's increasing willingness to submit its own voluntary agreements to increase purchasing power. But in some quarters it was reported that four new "codes of fair competition" submitted yesterday were not enough.

Don't ANGER
Mosquitoes

IT'S NO USE just annoying mosquitoes and flies when they buzz around you at home. And it's a waste of time to go after them singly with a folded newspaper. What you want is something that will put each and every one of them out of business for good and all, and at once! Black Flag will do that job for you quickly and surely. Spray where from a Black Flag spray gun upward toward the ceiling. Watch the fine clean mist drop them to the floor where they can be swept up—dead! Black Flag won't hurt humans or pets. It has a pleasant, clean smell. For crawling pests like roaches, ants, bedbugs and fleas, shoot Black Flag powder into cracks and corners. All grocers, druggists, hardware, and general stores sell Black Flag. It KILLS—yet costs no more than weak preparations which may be offered you.

Husband Denies 3 Babies Products of Science

Detroit, July 14 (US)—Mrs. Mate "Dolly" Housner's claim that her three daughters are products of "a marvelous scientific discovery" was branded as false today by Judge G. Shelley, to whom she was married when they were born.

"The children are natural children," he said. "There is nothing scientific about them. But I am not their father."

Shelley told his story in prosecutor's efforts after being found in a downtown hotel. He said his wife had died about the time of the children until the time of their separation when "she told me I was not the father, she said Corcoran was."

Corcoran is Robert Corcoran, a bachelor, now an insurance agent, who lived next door to the Shelleys as a youth. Shelley was in Russia on a business trip he said, when his wife first struck up a friendship with Corcoran.

Records show Mrs. Shelley had three children.

SHOTS FIRED IN CHASE; 2 HELD

Two youths are awaiting arraignment in juvenile court, a South End man is in serious condition at City Hospital and a stolen auto is wrecked today as a result of a chase through South End streets last night.

The two boys, in custody gave their names to police as Thomas Mcweeney, of Tudor st., and Walter LaMontagne, of C st., both of South Boston.

City Hospital the name of Archie Bradshaw, 68, of West Springfield st., South End, has been placed on the danger list. The chase started in Columbus ave. at Dartmouth st., when Motorcycle officer William C. Williams, of W. Warren ave. station, became suspicious of the pair.

He gave chase, firing several shots.

In Shawmut ave. they struck Bradshaw.

IRENE WINS FOR DOG IN COURT

Chicago, July 14 (US)—Irene Castle McLaughlin, once internationally famous as a dancer and now a Lake Forest society matron fought a successful court battle yesterday in behalf of a mongrel dog and its owner, 12-year-old Arthur Koestner.

Superior Judge Robert S. Gentzel issued a temporary injunction restraining city dog pound officials from turning over Spotty the mongrel pet, to any scientific institution or medical school for vivisection.

The dog, once a ward of Mrs. McLaughlin's orphanage of the city, was given for stray animals. Storm, a haven for stray animals, was given by her to young Koestner last February, but Spotty ran from the dog catcher and was brought for the vivisection table when Mrs. McLaughlin engaged a lawyer and saved the day for pet and devoted owner.

BAD CARRIAGE OF THE HEAD IS RESPONSIBLE FOR DISFIGURING "DOWAGER'S HUMPS"

Exercises for the Neck and Shoulders Are Today's Beauty Contribution

By Margaret Matson

WHAT IS called a "dowager's hump," that mound on the back of the neck, is so prevalent that many women never give a thought to the fact that they themselves have an unsightly one. There should be some curve to the upper back and shoulders, but when that curve is lost, the hump is born. It is a bad thing, but when it comes, it is a bad thing. It is a bad thing, but when it comes, it is a bad thing.

Beauty Queries and Answers

Sagging Chin

Question: Will you please tell me what is good for a sagging chin? I am 36 years old. Lately my arms and legs have been getting flabby and I should like to know what to do about it. Also will you tell what will tighten my skin?

W. B. McCa, Tarrant, Mass.
Answer: Black patting with the back of the hand or with a glove will work wonders in reducing a sagging chin. You can use a "grip" smoothing cream or anointing with the patting to strengthen and tighten the muscles. These are excellent. As for your legs and arms, one of the best suggestions is to exercise. Take a few arm and leg exercises each day and soon the muscles will stretch the fat tissue that makes your arms and legs seem flabby.

Tonics and Stimulants

Question: While I was visiting Boston I read with much interest your articles which appeared in the Boston American. I would very much appreciate receiving your suggestion for a good skin stimulant—very skin—also the mask which you say can be made at home. Would you be good enough to advise the difference between a stimulant and a tonic and when each should be used? Thanking you—Miss S. M. H. New York City.

Answer: Thank you so much for your letter. The difference between a stimulant and a tonic is that a stimulant is a substance that causes the body to react more vigorously, while a tonic is a substance that restores the body to its normal state. A stimulant is used when the body is sluggish or weak, while a tonic is used when the body is exhausted or overworked.

A stimulant opens the pores and stimulates the circulation. A tonic usually is an astringent that closes the pores, though it is mildly stimulating. The stimulant one uses in the middle of a facial, preceded and followed by a tonic. They are really rather strong and quick. The pores to allow the cream to penetrate. At the end of a facial, in preparation for makeup. Some of the best cleaning properties and are excellent for quick cleaning. Then there are muscle tightening astringents that must not be confused. Their action is upon the muscles rather than upon the pores. One uses them for distance to firm a sagging chin.

The most embarrassing moment of my life happened on Saturday June 24, 1933. As I was running for a street car, my foot hit a man's lunch and bathing a reservoir burst, making the contents scatter on the street. Was I embarrassed? —MISS MARTIN REDDYCK, 62 Winthrop Rd., Dorchester.

Now that the third Prince of Wales is married, the friends of the family may have money by stocking in his wedding. By the way, before prices go high on money, buy some now.

With such speed and generosity has the title been passed along that if the good work keeps up, nearly every famous star and popular debutante in America will have a chance to be a princess at least once in her life. (What the fate in Hollywood, anyway?)

In a day and an age when romantic love seemed to be at its lowest ebb, the Prince of Wales has been the American women's greatest benefactor. For, by bringing romance to Hollywood and inspiration to its stars, he has sent a vicarious thrill through the heart of every little movie-fan from Maine to California.

According to a new report from Mary, the movie-star, and Mary McCormack, the opera singer, both have loved that their respective princely husbands were by the grace, before prices go high on money, buy some now.

And, if we remember correctly, Pats, the Boston Beauty, her prince with only the gentlest feelings of regret and admiration.

That is the distinguishing thing about this particular family of princes. Every time one of them gets free-lim, it is the Boston Beauty who receives the highest sort of "references" from his ex-princess. And the one inalienable mark of a gentleman or a lady, is the ability to divorce your wife or your daughter, and still be a gentleman.

FROM ULTRA-MODERN CIRE SATIN TO GRANDMOTHER'S AFGHAN

CRINKLED CIRE SATIN CROCHETED FIELD FLOWER ENSEMBLE NAVY AND WHITE

Marion Davies introduces gleaming crinkled cire satin, very mannish in cut. The gloves is of white pique; the gloves of swastika print.

Grandmother's afghan with its crocheted design of many colored field flowers offers the delightful inspiration for this modern daytime costume which Miss Davies has selected. The flowers are set in squares nearly all over the cape, glove cuffs, and beret. And Marion Davies has selected a rather conservative daytime costume. The jacket is of blue and white matelasse, the rest of blue crepe.

The balance sheet, profit and loss statement and cash flow statement are the three basic financial statements of a company. The balance sheet shows the company's assets, liabilities and equity at a specific point in time. The profit and loss statement shows the company's revenues, expenses and net income over a period of time. The cash flow statement shows the company's cash inflows and outflows over a period of time. These three statements are interrelated and provide a comprehensive view of a company's financial performance and position.

Silver Agreement Is Seen as Likely

Sudden wave of speculative buying in silver, which has risen 40¢ to 40½ cents an ounce, is based on reports that, however unsuccessful the London conference might be in the way of stabilizing exchange, cutting the London agreement to raise silver prices may be reached. Agreement, it was said, would be reached in the next few days. Along with the London agreement, it was said, would be a new international bank, along lines of proposal by labor Pittman would carry part of the currency risk. The company, which is based in India, would agree to withhold sales in open market under some fixed price.

London, July 14—The closing was steady on the London Stock Exchange today. A large business was done in milkmaid distillers' shares, which registered some advances. Distillers' shares were up 1/4.

Industrial Royal Profit Is $686,224

New York, July 14—Industrial Royal Corp. today reported a net profit of $686,224 for the first 6 months of 1933, equal to $1 1/2 cents a share. The company's earnings for the same period of 1932 were $114,812 in the same period in 1932.

Broader Trade Trends Seen for Industry

New York, June 14 (AP)—Trade director trends were disclosed this week in the reports received from the U.S. Customs Service from all sections of the country and from the U.S. Customs Service districts in the South.

At New York, the U.S. Customs Service said, "confirmed a decline in the volume of foreign goods imported last year's record than the twenty reports had indicated. The place in the delineation of these reports was the decline in the volume of certain trade of reactionary character, which was the result of a continuing expansion. The decline in the volume of trade was a minor consideration as more important was the decline in the volume of trade, which was the result of a continuing expansion to carry current U.S. operating schedules into the future."

RUSSIAN SITUATION CLARIFIED

WASHINGTON MONUMENT—"Well, sir, when I was in Russia I went to the bottom of everything in my usual dauntless way, including a Siberian salt mine. I found the Russians a secretive lot, but I picked up some dandy dances while spending the week-end with some friends on the Teller Steppes, and had snapshots taken of myself in various fiery poses. I will be glad to autograph and send one of these pictures to any lady who writes in, giving me her name, address, phone number and date of her birth. Ladies born prior to 1912 need not waste their postage, as I am looking for a fresh viewpoint."

"There are just two kinds of people," reflects Genevieve, the kitchen cynic; "those always wondering how they're going to get out of it, and those who're always wondering what they're going to get out of it."

Now we're getting somewhere! New Brunswick, N. J.—An extension class in the Rutgers University School of Education, composed of school teachers, was ordered to repeat an examination because the professor was convinced several members had cheated during the test.

What Is in This Face?

Will Power, Strength, and VICTORY

HELEN WILLIS MOODY, SIX TIMES CHAMPION

This is a face of which the United States, and California ESPECIALLY, may be proud.

Last Saturday, for the sixth time in succession, Helen Willis Moody won the "All-England Championship" at Wimbledon. Only twice in her six victories did she lose even one set.

This picture shows her as she appears on the court, with the sunshade that she introduced into tennis, and the calm expression which the English, for lack of a better name, called her "poker-face."

This is no "poker-face," but a face of quiet concentration and DETERMINATION. It is a beautiful face, beautiful in profile and in every other way, but beautiful especially in the calm earnestness that wins victories in life.

To win no great victory, calling for perfect self-control and physical condition, not once, twice, three or four times, but SIX TIMES IN SUCCESSION, is a wonder that has only once been equaled in the history of athletic sports.

All America is proud of this able young woman who represents her country so nobly.

Port of Boston Booms

Fight Now on Wood Pulp Rates

Boston has become thoroughly port-minded again. Our shipping has increased enormously.

The customs receipts have more than doubled the past few years.

Our shippers have come to see the economic as well as the local patriotic value of freighting their goods from Boston.

Our passengers more than ever before are demanding to be "hooked out of Boston."

Hardly a month passes but what some new transatlantic or coastwise line decides to make regular sailings from this port.

Our people have been more disposed to fight for their rights.

A notable victory was won before the Interstate Commerce Commission to abolish the terminal, wharfage and transfer charges and other subsidies to shippers at New York which disadvantaged the port of Boston.

Other and numerous freight differentials which favored other ports against Boston have been eliminated.

The contest now being made against the new and higher wood pulp rates is a grand manifestation of the determination of the people of Boston to carry on for the complete revival of Boston as a great and powerful shipping center.

The scheme is to increase the railroad freight rates on wood pulp to Boston by two cents per 100 pounds and to allow lesser increases to other ports which compete with Boston.

Daniel Males properly declared that if the new rates are allowed, the railroads will ship to other ports and Boston will lose all its wood-pulp shipments, which now amount to 280,000 tons annually.

The Boston Evening American has for many years led the campaign for development of the port of Boston and for conservation of all its rights, and is now pleased indeed to see the universal spirit of Boston and New England arrayed solidly in that endeavor.

Fr. O'Connor Retires

He Has Served His Country Well

Rev. Fr. Michael J. O'Connor, a noble character, has retired as senior chaplain of the Yankee Division.

Thus ends a career with the Massachusetts military which he began forty-two years ago, prior to his study for the priesthood.

By his long and meritorious service he attained the rank of Brigadier-General, said to be the highest distinction ever achieved by an Army Chaplain in this country.

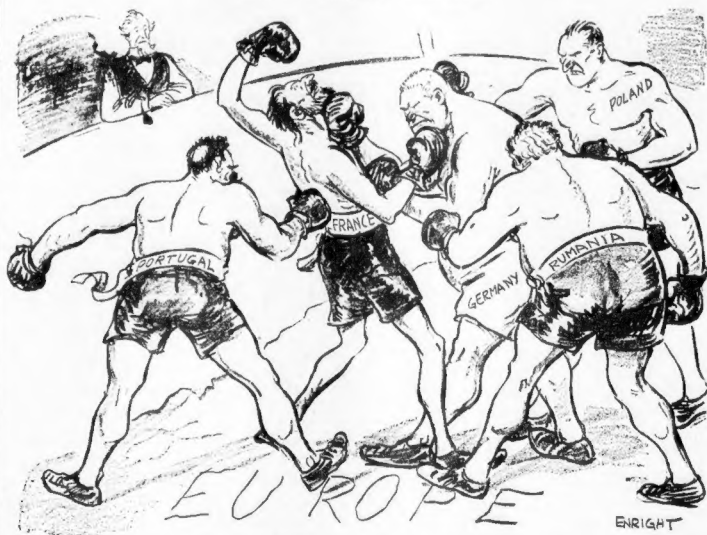

This man of God has seen war in all its hideous suffering and brutality and like all good men he would welcome the day when the possibility of war was forever removed.

Perhaps he believes with General Washington that an adequate defense is the best guarantee against war. In any event, he has little or no confidence in those international conferences which talk much peace and lay the scheme for much war.

Father O'Connor has said recently that these conferences, in which the Americans, and usually the English, are usually feathers, can be of no avail while rivalry and jealousy substitute themselves for the brotherhood of man. He is a practical man who speaks out of a wealth of experience in the service of his country. His philosophy ought to be good enough for all of us, especially our embryonic statesmen who are eager to rush into a conference every time they hear the clink of a tea cup abroad.

EVENING

The Tariff Truce

Secretary Hull, our chief delegate at the World Economic Conference, has a theory. He wants all tariffs lowered—including our own.

As a first step in carrying out his theory at London Secretary Hull got the nations represented in the World Conference to agree to a tariff truce. They promised to take no "new initiatives" in the way of tariff measures. But these same nations insisted that tariff policies already in use were not "new initiatives," and should therefore be continued. And then the tariff business got all tangled up in the conference red tape at London.

Today we see how Secretary Hull's "tariff truce" has turned out. It looks more like an old-fashioned battle royal. France and Portugal are waging a tariff war. France is also waging a tariff war with Germany, and Germany in turn is waging tariff wars with Rumania and Poland. Moreover, these tariff wars affect every country selling the particular kinds of goods that are taxed or excluded in the wars—so that every tariff war affects the United States.

At present, because of Secretary Hull's theory, the United States is about the only country that is keeping the "truce" and doing nothing to build up its tariff defenses.

But a one-man truce never got anybody any place in a battle royal, so perhaps it is time for Uncle Sam to forget about the truce and begin doing something about his tariffs.

New York Day by Day

Various Things

NEW YORK July 14.—Thoughts while strolling: Seems the depression while yesterday. Height of what became of the Palace orchestra leaders, Helen Willis Moody, and Lou Forman! Variety's first night oracle—Jack Pulaski, Claude Colbert has the come-hither eyes in this movie.

One word description of Ois Ralston—chuckled by Owen U. Young resemble.

O. O. McIntyre Al Johnson, H. T. Webster's middle name is Throckmorton. Whatname became of La Belle Tuckman and her white horse? Jimmy Montague and White Dudley could pass for twins. And both ports too.

Westbrook Pegler, a Minneapolis Minn. boy, who made good in the city. J. P. Morgan's son Junius is never without a cigarette.

May become the Winter Garden, the magician. No one ever looks like me. The nearest word was Tully Marshall when he played in "The City." And was that a break?

Wonder if all the people are broke who claim to be. Those luncheonettes called "The Shanty" are sponsored by Nedick, the orange juice man. So the Winter Garden may become German beer hall. Once that would have been a yarn for me. But now it does not win even a shill.

Not even the depression throttles Wall Street's yearly laugh—the annual burlesque edition of the Wall Street Journal, called "The Bawl Street Journal." It rocks with a vulgar mirth from which the highest to the lowest nabobs are not immune. It shows the biggest show in the street is opening a branch office adding location. "For no particular reason." And one reads a grave humor. "As a prospective generator will hire a phone operator."

The cinema's modest little wren Ruby Keeler, suddenly takes on the glamour of the plummed star. She is called so instantaneously that stardom for her becomes a matter of selection. The "age deal" seems to include a shuffle to movie stars. And customers better be pecking at hole cards.

Texas Guinan tells friends she will blivouse in the outland until New York becomes New York again. A complex creature, Texas loves domesticity and her heavily dioned and flaccidly pillowed-pierced-turre on West 8th street is fully staffed with servants who, along with her white-haired mother and father, await her return. Recently she told me: "I love a home and the love of a skilful better than any trouper living. But I whisper that softly. For if the public believed that, along with the thought that I was a lady, it would kill my career completely." Whether Texas returns permanently to New York or not, her vivid splash on the night life canvas will glow phosporically in memory.

Just as I begin to believe I'm getting rational again I get a note from Miss Mickey Michaelis and can't stop repeating it. Miss Mickey Michaelis tra la la. The last name had me catching at my throat. But now it does not turn on my gold fish.

Exhausting oneself, my such abgabs leaves a fool prey to the most ridiculous forebodings. All day I've said that the government may ask us to turn in our gold fish.

Giving Advice

SOMEONE'S mad at you—just because you gave them a little advice: told them some unpleasant truths for them.

And it was such a sensible advice! Look at all the trouble that might have been saved if they'd taken it!

It's criticism we need. But I'm criticism was just too much for them. It made that other person. I feel I'm a real friend. But what thanks did they give me? They told me that if you told them for their own good.

Well, don't you hear the truth about ourselves. That's the way to win strong and wiser, isn't it?

Yes, you certainly acted the part of a real friend. But what thanks did you get? Not a decent word if you'll flatter and abuse them.

Stop and think. Put yourself in the other human's position. Suppose you were the one who had to face that unflattering meddling. Would you like it? Of course you wouldn't. You'd feel resentful.

And even if the advice is intelligent, what of the individual's hidden resentment?

SOMETIMES IT IS MUCH MORE IMPORTANT TO MAKE MISTAKES THAN IT IS FOR US TO PLAY SAFE AND PROVE IT TO OURSELVES.

WE LEARN MORE FROM ONE OF OUR MISTAKES THAN WE DO FROM A THOUSAND OF THE OTHERS.

Barring those precautions which serve the common good, you've no more right to deny another advice the right to make a few mistakes than you have to shut off his air or his food.

But an injunction doesn't go merely for strangers, or acquaintances, or casual friends. It goes even to those who are nearest and dearest. That other human may be your husband, your wife, son or daughter, mother or father—BUT HE OR SHE IS AN INDIVIDUAL. FIRST OF ALL, HE OR SHE IS AN INDIVIDUAL.

THAT OTHER SOUL WITHIN YOU HAVE TO TELL GOD HOW TO RUN HIS JOB.

Which, by the way, is exactly what you are doing when you meddle with the development of another life. You ARE telling the job in that life how to run its job.

And if that god knows his business, which it generally does, it won't shut the door in your face.

Sound Naval Policy

U. S. Plans Most Powerful Cruiser

Quite in keeping with the recovered vigor of our naval policy is the news from Washington that the American Navy is prepared to lay down a cruiser which will be superior to any now afloat.

Work on it cannot be commenced until the expiration of the London Naval Treaty, under the terms of which the United States accepted the most ridiculous and irrational restrictions upon the types of vessels making up its tonnage quota.

The cruisers now under construction, pursuant to the permissions of the existing naval treaty, are armed with six-inch guns instead of the eight-inch guns which for years had been customary with American cruisers.

Furthermore, our acquiescence in the reduced cruising radius proposed by the London agreement involved a departure from naval tradition and the growth of a weakness out of conformity to our needs and to the lesser number of naval bases that we possess.

The neglect of the United States in past years to establish required naval bases—suitable in both geographical position—had left us but one expedient for overcoming the disadvantage in this respect which we suffer in comparison with other naval powers.

With the necessity of relatively longer cruises between bases it is necessary that our ships should be so constructed and equipped as to have a compensating advantage in cruising radius.

This is as plain as anything could be. And it is altogether consistent with the new spirit of self-reliance which is to animals and states alike in the near approaching time when we can work clear of the restrictions which our incompetent diplomacy of recent years has put upon us, and be done with foreign dictation in matters as vital as the theory and organization of our national defense.

It is gratifying for Americans to realize that the scrapping of floating ships for blueprints, as we fatuously agreed to do at the Washington Disarmament Conference of 1921-22, is no longer the American policy.

The recent statement of Secretary of the Navy Swanson sounded the knell of that form of national imbecility.

Loneliest Place in World Bids for Another Mongoose—Mr. Everest

By Edwin C. Hill

The loneliest place in the world is not at the top of the world. Four times the of Tristan da Cunha in the middle of the South Atlantic ocean. It's an extinct volcano, rising more than seven thousand feet above the sea. It's far off the steamship tracks and doesn't see ship more than once a year.

A hundred and sixty people live on this forsaken chunk of lava, going without mail and newspapers for many months at a time, and often going very much without the soil in this poor and raised little. They would starve if it weren't for the fish in the sea.

They cling to the island, one of the most amazing evidences of the power of habit and custom.

Five nationalities live on Tristan da Cunha, English, Scotch, Irish, Italian and American. There has been a great deal of intermarriage and there are a few families named—Glas, Rogers, Hagen, Swan, Lavelle.

They have no artificial light except from their own lamps. There is no money and no need for it. They get along with the system of barter, as mankind did ten thousand years ago.

One of the most interesting people named Edinburgh.

And now the people of Tristan da Cunha send out a plaintive appeal for another mongoose, which is a kind of weasel and death on rats and snakes. They have one mongoose and the rats on the island are getting too tough for him.

Any day he is apt to become a casualty and then the big rats would overrun the place. The people want some more mongooses, and they also ask for cannedardines, Epsum salt and Bibles.

Interesting news from the roof of the world. The little group of Englishmen who have been fighting their way up for sight of the snowward the summit of the world's highest mountain—Mount Everest—have abandoned their courageous adventure for the small rest.

For eight weeks, they fought their way through snow and ice, breathing the savage gases which eternally sweep the crevasses of the mountain, climbing finally to a height of 28,000 feet. But Everest and the demons which dwell on his peak have ruled them at last, and the gleaming pinnacle which rises 28,000 feet above the snow has been reached.

Never has a human being rested upon that majestic height, and now the Englishmen have done so. They have reached the summit of the world's highest mountain—Mount Everest.
